2019

ANNUAL REPORT

HORSEPOWER IN OUR GIVING

To my colleagues and friends,

The theme of the 2019 annual report is ‘Horsepower in our Giving,’ reflecting the great strength of the PAA Foundation as it enters its eighteenth year. As Chairman of the Foundation, I am proud of the progress we have made and know that in that pride I am joined by the chairmen who preceded me, our dedicated board of trustees, our generous account holders, and our president and executive director. Of course, we all stand on the shoulders of J. Paul McMillen who conceived of and then nurtured the PAA Foundation.

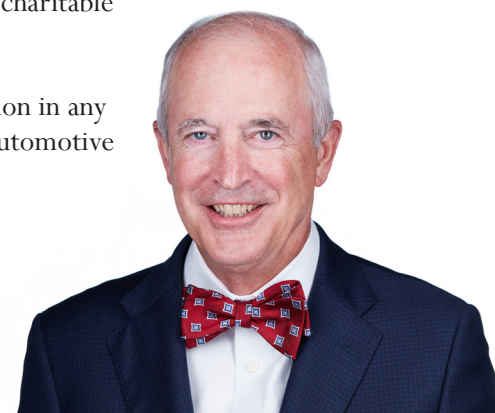

We experienced an amazing 2019, with the market producing investment income of nearly $9.9 million, the largest annual investment growth in PAAF history. We added several new accounts, welcoming families and businesses with charitable intentions. Most significantly, donor-advised and Benefactor Club account holders donated over $3.5 million to various charitable organizations.

This report highlights a small, select number of the many worthy organizations which received grants from our account holders. It is our hope that after reviewing the information you will contact us to learn more about the many ways the PAA Foundation can assist in your charitable giving. A philanthropic tool, the PAA Foundation makes it easy to support the charities that matter most to you.

If you would like to contribute but do not want to take part in one of the established Giving Recognition Levels, a donation in any amount can always be made to the PAA Scholarship Fund. In 2019, sixteen students were awarded scholarships. These automotive technology students and community service award recipients represented dealerships across Pennsylvania.

Thank you for your interest in the PAA Foundation. We hope you will consider making 2020 the year you join us.

Dear Friends,

In 2019, over $3.5 million was granted to charitable organizations by PAAF account holders. Their donations built hospitals, funded schools, inspired the arts, and gave hope to those in need.

Our donors used the PAA Foundation to give to the causes that matter most to them. A resource to maximize your charitable giving, the PAAF offers incentive money like no other foundation. We connect you to resources that will help you become a more effective and satisfied giver, all while providing great flexibility.

The PAA Foundation does not suggest specific places to give. You choose the charities that matter most to you.

We hope this publication inspires you to put some horsepower behind your charitable giving. If you would like your charitable contributions to be more strategic and aligned with your vision in 2020 and if you haven't explored the many benefits of a PAA Foundation account, we encourage you to make this the year you do.

Operation Warm

The Auto Dealers CARing for Kids Foundation

One in six children in the Greater Philadelphia region lives in poverty and a warm winter coat is one of the essential items they often live without. To fill this need, in the fall of 2019, the Auto Dealers Caring for Kids Foundation distributed a record 52,700 brand-new winter coats through its annual Driving Away the Cold program. This year's contribution brings the program's total number of coats given to 419,700 since 2008. The program is supported by local new car dealerships, auto industry stakeholders and proceeds of the Philadelphia Auto Show. The funds raised are used to purchase brand-new winter coats that are then distributed through 220 social services agencies, school districts, churches, and shelters in the area, including 29 regional YMCA branches. The Auto Dealers Caring for Kids Foundation also generously supported the YMCAs in the five-county area in 2019.

Children's Home of Easton

The Greater Lehigh Valley Automobile Dealers Association Foundation

Today, the Children's Home of Easton can house approximately 80 children on its campus and 70 off campus in group and foster homes. The Children's Home of Easton provides a caring, nurturing environment for children in need as well as assistance to their families. Allison-Antrim Museum

The Paul K. and Anna E. Shockey Family Foundation

It was June 15, 1863, when Confederate Rebel troops started to march across the Mason-Dixon Line and touched the homeland soil of citizens in Antrim Township and Greencastle. By the end of June, the citizens had watched from their farms, homes and the sidewalks for days on end as the Confederates made their way to Gettysburg. Seventeen year old Dolly Harris rushed to the street in front of the leader of the southern band, waved the stars and stripes, and roundly denounced the troops as "traitors to their country, cut throats, and plunderers." General Pickett removed his hat and saluted the courageous young lady and the flag. Following suit, Pickett's men also saluted young Dolly, and the division's band passed by. It was more than 20 years later, at the Gettysburg Reunion in 1887, that the flag-waving girl incident was first mentioned in a speech made by Colonel William Aylett, of Pickett's division. Aylett said, "Why the bravest woman I ever saw was a Pennsylvania girl who defied Pickett's whole division as we marched through the little town called Greencastle. Saturday, November 2, 2019, marked the 174th birthday of Frances "Dolly" Harris Leshar. Bonnie Shockey hosted a presentation about Dolly Harris in the Allison-Antrim Museum Barn. Great supporters of Pennsylvania history, the Paul K. and Anna E. Shockey Family Foundation generously gave to Allison-Antrim Museum and to PA Museums in 2019, as well as numerous other worthy charities.

Capitol Theatre Center Foundation

The Allan and Barbara Jennings Family Foundation

Originally known as “The Theatorium” and later “The Jackson,” the Capitol Theatre in Chambersburg was built as a one level dance hall, with the balcony added in 1917 for films. The Appell family, who built the Strand Theatre, bought The Jackson in 1926, remodeled it again, and reopened it as the Capitol Theatre in 1927. The theatre continued as a popular movie house until 1977. The theatre has undergone smaller, cosmetic upgrades over the last few decades including the restoration of the theatre’s “Mighty Wurlitzer” organ in the 1980s; and, the latest improvement for the theatre involved a $2 million facelift. Inside the 450-seat theatre, a digital cinema projector replaces a traditional film projector, and an automated screen replaces the hand-pulley screen and curtain system previously used. In 2019, the Capitol Theatre received a donation from the Allan and Barbara Jennings Family Foundation.

Pennsylvania Equine Rescue and Retirement Foundation

The Landis Family Foundation

The Pennsylvania Equine Rescue and Retirement Foundation, which received a generous grant in 2019 from the Landis Family Foundation, is committed to providing educational, personal development and community outreach through an equine intervention program for active and retired military personnel, troubled teens, and dementia patients and their care partners. Horses are considered a valuable partner in physical and emotional healing to develop confidence. Under supervision, participants are able to safely groom, feed and walk the horses. Another valuable aspect to the community outreach program is offering emergency response teams and firefighters education on helping save horses and other large animals in catastrophic situations. Large animal rescue is not widely understood in emergency services. Pennsylvania Equine Rescue is also a proud member of the Unwanted Horse Coalition and Equine Rescue Network, rescuing slaughter-bound, neglected, abandoned, lost, stolen, or missing horses in the United States. Currently, there are over 160,000 unwanted horses in the United States and over 140,000 horses are shipped to Canada and Mexico each year to be slaughtered.

East Hempfield K9 Unit

The Allen Family Foundation

In 2019, East Hempfield K9 Unit received a donation from the Allen Family Foundation. Hope Enterprises

The Blaise Alexander Family Foundation

With Hope's support, she's also learned how to drive, how to cook, how to manage money and how to care for her pets. Through Hope Enterprises, Chastity became independent. Hope Enterprises was founded in 1952 by physician Dr. Max E. Miller, and his wife, Leona, as well as other parents and community leaders in Williamsport. From the beginning, the organization was a front runner in providing community services to people with intellectual disABILITIES. In 2019, Hope Enterprises received a grant from the Blaise Alexander Family Foundation.

Operation Our Town

The Matt & Tiff Stuckey Foundation

It was a dramatic increase in violent crime and drug use that brought about the formation of Operation Our Town in 2006 in Altoona. A group of concerned citizens, determined to find a way to fight back, formed an exploratory group. What they discovered was that most area organizations, including law enforcement, did not have the resources needed to deter and reduce the criminal stronghold in the neighborhoods. Within a few short months, dozens of local businesses committed financial and other support to “take back the neighborhoods.” Partnerships were forged between Operation Our Town and existing organizations with proven law enforcement, treatment and prevention programs. Today, significant progress has been made to reduce drug activity and associated crime. In 2019, the Matt & Tiff Stuckey Foundation generously donated to Operation Our Town to continue the good work the community group is achieving in the fight against crime.

Women’s Resource Center

The Pompey Auto Group Foundation

In 1976, a small group of determined and courageous women founded the Women’s Resource Center to address the social injustices women and children faced, especially violence and oppression experienced at the hands of male partners and male community members. With an abundance of determination, they worked to raise funds to aid victims through advocacy, education, and social change. In 1982, staff and volunteers raised enough money to open a safe house where victims and their children receive emergency shelter. Through federal and state grants and foundation funding, the Center remains stable and continues to provide services to those in need. Today, the Women’s Resource Center remains a dynamic force in the community, helping 52,087 women and children in Lackawanna and Susquehanna Counties rebuild their lives free of violence and fear. Of that number, 42,138 were adult and child victims of domestic violence and 9,949 were victims of sexual abuse. Those reaching out for help come from all walks of life, socioeconomic backgrounds, education, ethnicities, and sexual orientation. Services are free. In 2019, the Women’s Resource Center received a generous grant from the Pompey Auto Group Foundation.

Little Sisters of the Poor

The Sullivan Numrich Foundation

At the request of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in April 1872, the Little Sisters of the Poor were invited to establish a home to care for the elderly in Pittsburgh. As the number of elderly in their care grew, an additional home was erected in 1885 along Penn Avenue in the Garfield neighborhood. The Little Sisters were recognized throughout the City as they went about in their horse and buggy begging for food and essential needs for the home. They were beloved by all for their selfless work in caring for the elderly poor. Continuing the work, today the Little Sisters of the Poor offer the neediest elderly of every race and religion a home where they will be welcomed. The current facility, located on nine hilltop acres, opened in 1923. Extensive renovations and additions have been made since then, including the construction of 45 independent living apartments with communal areas that make the location feel more like a college dormitory. Ninety-three residents and 14 sisters occupy the site. In 2019, Little Sisters of the Poor received a grant from the Sullivan Numrich Foundation.

We have to be very creative when it comes to funding.” In 2019, the Community Check Up Center Harrisburg received a grant from the Ballantine Family Foundation.

Gift of Life

The Scott Auto Group Foundation

At just 13-years-old Marquis Wood suffered a fatal asthma attack that left his family devastated. Amidst the darkest time in her life, Marquis' mother, Markita, made the decision to donate Marquis' organs to save others. "I said yes to donation that day and that decision continues to give me much comfort. I know my son is a hero who saved the lives of three other kids. They walk the earth every day because of Marquis," Markita said. Three young men received Marquis' kidneys, liver and heart. Gift of Life Donor Program is the nation's leading organ procurement organization, coordinating more organ and tissue donors than anywhere else in the United States. Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh

The Deborah Numrich Campbell Foundation

The local cardiology team that took on Miranda Jones' congenital heart condition after she was admitted to a Tennessee hospital in Memphis had run out of options, leaving the teenager at the most literal of dead ends. Her heart had arrested twice while in surgery, and her time on life support equipment was expected to be short when doctors reached out to the Heart Institute at Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh of UPMC. Children's Hospital dispatched its specialized transport team to bring Miranda to Pittsburgh, but upon arrival, her situation was found to be even more dire, when doctors discovered that she had suffered a massive stroke. The notion of any kind of heart surgery seemed out of the question. Yet nine months later, Miranda began her senior year of high school, much the same as any 17-year-old, thanks to her own strong spirit, pioneering capabilities developed by Children's Heart Failure and Recovery team, and a nearly full recovery from the stroke, which together made her a candidate for a successful heart transplant. Nationally, UPMC Children's Hospital is ranked for excellence. "It is an extraordinary achievement to be recognized as one of the best children's hospitals in the country," said Mark Sevco, president, UPMC Children's. "The rankings reflect our staff's dedication to creating the ultimate patient care experience by providing compassionate and world-renowned care for every single patient and family every single day." A long-time supporter of Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh, the Deborah Numrich Campbell Foundation provided a grant in 2019, supporting children's healthcare and medical research.
